

Space Heater Safety Tips:

When buying a space heater, look for one that has been tested by a nationally recognized company such as Underwriter's Laboratories Inc.

Keep the heater at least three feet away from drapes, furniture or other flammable materials.

Place the heater on a level surface away from where someone may bump it or knock it over.

If you must use an extension cord, make sure it is a heavy duty cord with a rating of 1.25 times the wattage rating of the heater itself.

Never leave the heater unattended or running while you sleep or are away from your home.

Keep electric heaters away from water and never use near a sink or in the bathroom.

Space Heater Fires:

While these fires are not frequent, they are usually deadly.

Between 2006-2009, fifty nine space heater fires were reported to the office of the Fire Marshall.

One in every seven space heater fires causes a fatality. These fires caused 8 civilian deaths, 9 civilian injuries and 18 fire service injuries and an estimated dollar loss of $3.5 million.

The average loss for a space heater fire is $46, 567.

Twenty two percent of these fires were caused when combustible materials such as bedding, magazines or clothing were too close to the heater.

Five percent of the fires were caused when rugs or carpets were under, over or too close to the heater.

Employee Spotlight

NATHAN BICKFORD

DUSTIN PRATER

Nate is a powerhouse! He has worked for C&D for over 3 years, and has been our employee of the month twice within the past 6 months. This guy has an excellent work ethic and the energy to see it through. When not helping our customers, Nate spends time with his family. He also enjoys riding his motorcycle.

Dustin has only been with C&D for a few short months, but is an extremely hard working, dedicated employee. He has a tremendous sense of humor, and is admired by his peers. He uses his positive energy to get the job done. When not working, he enjoys spending time with his family and his girlfriend.
